

Foundation Toolkit in Developmental Care

16 - 17 April 2012

Changes in service need and health care policy have promoted new roles for nurses, doctors and therapists, which directly impact on the experience of parents and their hospitalised infants.

Duration: 2 Days

Fees: £350 with a discount for hospitals in the North West London Perinatal Network

This course is designed to reflect recommendations within the DOH Toolkit for High Quality Neonatal Care that include leadership and education to meet the developmental needs of infants and to provide family centred care. The course will enable you to understand what those needs are and how they can be met.

There will be strong interactive and practical elements to encourage awareness of your own practice and problem solving. A kit of materials will be provided and further resources will be available on the course website.

Course aims

The aim of this course is to provide a comprehensive, evidence based introduction to family centred developmental care that will help you to evaluate practice and identify goals for continuing development.

For further details on this course, contact:

Eva Moreno

School of Professional Development
Imperial College London
E-mail: cpd@imperial.ac.uk
Tel: 020 7594 6885

Who should attend

The course is designed for clinicians working with hospitalised preterm and newborn infants in neonatal units, and also in transitional care and paediatric units for example

- Neonatal nurses
- Paediatric therapists working with neonates
- Medical staff
- Midwives
- Paediatric nurses
- Nursery nurses

Future courses in Neonatal Developmental Care

The Foundation Toolkit in Developmental Care is the first in a planned three step pathway of learning. The second stage, planned for autumn 2012, will aim to improve practical skills through observation, activity analysis, case studies and reflective practice. It will combine study days and self directed study in the clinical setting.

To register for a place and for more information visit:
www.imperial.ac.uk/cpd/developmentcare